NEW YORK TIMES BEST-SELLER ANGELA HUNT'S
THE FINE ART OF INSINCERITY
IN STORES FROM HOWARD/SIMON & SCHUSTER MAY 2011

(New York, NY and Nashville, TN) NYT-bestseller Angela Hunt delivers a powerful Southern tale of sisterhood in The Fine Art of Insincerity. Penny, Ginger, and Rosemary are three sisters bound by more than genetics. Despite the disparate lives they've developed in adulthood, the girls' childhood loss of their mother (and subsequent raising by seven-time married, recently deceased Grandma Irene) continues to color the present.

When Grandma's house on St. Simon's Island finally sells, the girls must come together to clean it out for the seller. In the process, they just might clean up their own lives as well.

“Only Angela Hunt could write a relationship novel that’s a page-turner!”

(Liz Curtis Higgs, NYT bestselling novelist)

“Phenomenal author Angela Hunt never disappoints.”

(Romance Reviews Today)

“So real, so powerful. Pull out the tissues!”

(Traci DePree, novelist)

Angela Hunt is the bestselling author of more than 100 books, including The Tale of Three Trees, Don't Bet Against Me, The Note, and The Nativity Story. Her nonfiction book Don't Bet Against Me, written with Deanna Favre, spent several weeks on the New York Times bestseller list. She and her husband make their home in Florida with their dogs.
